

TRAIL RIDERS

No. 91

SPRING

1951

It's Easy to Become a Trail Rider

Who are the Trail Riders?

The Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies comprise an independent society of alpine enthusiasts of both sexes who each year hold two or more camps — usually of five days' duration — in the vicinity of Banff or Lake Louise.

Membership in the order is open to all, regardless of race, creed, color or profession.

What are their aims?

Principal aims of the society are to encourage horseback riding over the more remote trails of the Canadian Rockies, to encourage the construction of new trails and the maintenance and improvement of those already in use, to promote good fellowship, interest in wild life, and to co-operate with other organizations holding similar aims.

How are they governed?

Established in 1923 by John Murray Gibbon, well known author and lyricist, and retired general publicity agent for the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Trail Riders have their own constitution, executive officers, council, and various operating committees. A new slate of officers is elected annually, the office of President alternating each year between a Canadian and an American Trail Rider.

How is the camp conducted?

Trail Riders make their headquarters at a permanent camp from which a series of outstanding trails radiate. They set out each morning on new trails, lunch on the trail, and return to camp at nightfall for supper, singsong and campfire entertainment. Riders make their homes in tepees, artistically decorated by Indians of the local Stony tribe. Sleeping bags take the place of beds.

How do I join the annual ride?

To make application for any of the annual rides simply drop a note to the Secretary-Treasurer, Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, Room 284, Windsor Station, Montreal, Que., enclosing a deposit of $10.00, and stating which of the rides you wish to attend. The deposit is credited to total trail ride fee, the balance being payable in Banff up to the day before ride gets under way. If you find it necessary to cancel your reservation on or before June 15 your deposit is refunded. If it is your first ride, the Secretary-Treasurer will enclose an "outfitter's form" requesting information as to your experience, weight, etc., so that a suitable horse may be assigned.

Cost of each of the five-day rides is $65.00. This includes horse, saddle equipment, tepee accommodation, meals, guide services and gratuities.

What experience is required?

You don't need to be an expert rider to join the organization. Some join the rides with very little experience in the saddle. The horses are mild mannered, sure footed mountain cayuses noted for their dependability on the trails.

The cavalcade moves in single file mostly at a walk, an average day's ride comprising 15 to 20 miles with rest periods. Seated in a big western saddle with hand resting on saddle horn, even the greenest dude can watch the landscape in comfort and security. And if you happen to be weary some morning you can laze around camp all day without loss of face!

How do I become a member?

To be a full-fledged member of the organization you must have at least 50 miles of Rocky Mountain trail riding to your credit. This mileage can be acquired either with the Trail Riders themselves or independently.

Upon completion of a membership form and payment of the annual $2.00 fee, you become a full-fledged member and are entitled to wear the button of the order, these varying with your accumulated mileage. (See page 11). As a member you are entitled to receive the Trail Riders' official magazine, issued three times a year. You also become eligible for any office in the executive or council.

Don't forget these big dates !

Five-Day Ride No. 1 — Friday, July 13 to Tuesday, July 17

Five-Day Ride No. 2 — Friday, July 20 to Tuesday, July 24

Your Cayuse Is Waiting!

"EVERYBODY UP!"

Soon these magic words—magic to every trail rider's ears—will herald the commencement of our 28th annual rides which, as most of us know, are scheduled this year for July 13-17 and July 20-24. And if you'll take a look at your favorite calendar you'll find the dates aren't so far off.

From all indications, the "28th" promises to be a ride to be remembered. In the first place we are going into country that very few, of us have seen from the saddle. Our trails wind through areas where anything under 9,000-ft. in altitude rates scarcely a second glance!

From our base camp on the Wolverine Plateau our trail passes such lofty snow-clad giants as Mount Gray, Mt. Drysdale, Helmet Mountain and Mt. Sharp—all well over the 9,000 and 10,000-ft. mark and the still loftier towers of Mount Goodsir. Along the route is majestic Washmawapta Glacier with Tumbling Glacier farther to the south.

And if you like lots of running water take a glance at the map in the centre of this issue—and start counting the creeks. Tumbling, Ochre, Helmet, Misko, Goodsir, to name a few, plus the Vermilion and Ottertail Rivers, all keep us company along the projected route.

We also cram more than our usual share of National Parks into the itinerary—three to be exact. From the time we board our buses at Banff to the time we take our last bow at Stunt Nite we will have set foot on Banff, Kootenay and Yoho Parks with Kootenay claiming the lion's share of our mileage.

As mentioned in our last Bulletin, camp conditions are ideal from both the riders' and the outfitter's standpoint. Water facilities are ideal, firewood is available in generous supply, and where there's good tall timber we need have no fear for lack of tepee poles and spruce boughs for bedding.

Not the least of the attractions will be the bus trip from Banff to our Marble Canyon trailhead some 40 miles southwest on the Banff-Windermere Highway.

By now all members will have received the new folder, application and outfitter forms, as well as news letter from the secretary-treasurer. A number of applications have been received since and we hope to see the number grow. We have something extra special this year in the way of an itinerary. We want as many as possible of our members to be in on the fun.

THUNDER SPIRIT DWELT IN SPRINGS

Paint Pots to Colour '51 Trail

EVER heard of the Unsa Wcken Eagubi? Perhaps you haven't yet. But if you join this year's ride you'll be paying them a visit.

We're referring to the famous Vermilion Paint Pots near Marble Canyon across the Vermilion River from the Banff-Windermere Road, which will be encountered during the opening phase of our ride.

The paint pots, with their natural deposits of colored clay, were referred to as the Unsa Wcken Ecgubi by the Stoney Indians, the translation being "Where the Red Clay Spirit is Taken."

Clay taken from the same Paint Pots was used in the paintings on the rocks at Sinclair Canyon on the Banff-Windermere Road.

An interesting account of the Paint Pots, dictated by Daniel Wildman, Jr., a Stoney Indian of the Geological Survey, Ottawa, appears in the second issue of the Trail Riders Bulletin, published in 1925. It reads:

"Our people used to take their war paint at these springs, from the old generations. The people in the old days used to dream about the red clay; they were instructed in their dreams as to what to paint on themselves; maybe the rainbow on the forehead, maybe a large eagle on the body, maybe a bull's head. At times they were instructed to paint a buffalo on their tents, or a rainbow or a quarter of the moon; or again a large bird which they called Muh-Thunder. Or, at times, a great eagle called Wcwgyan-toza.

"Some famous Indians, two or three of them in the tribe, would take the clay and keep it for times of need, that is, for the use of the wounded. They used to put it in the wound; they stretched the wound and filled it with red paint. This was one of its many uses. They also used to paint the spirit protector they had seen in their dreams, at the time they were expecting to face hardships.

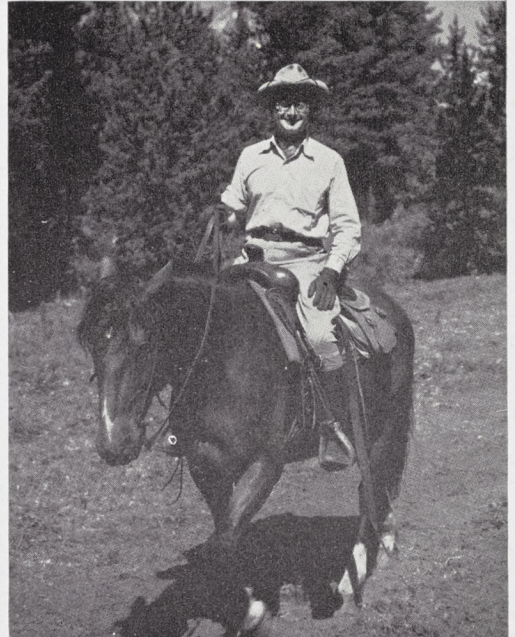

"Our people say that they see big animal spirits, the Thunder spirit in the springs. They also saw a spotted horse, and something like a man, or at times a tiger".

With these interesting legends in mind, the Vermilion Paint Pots will take on added fascination in the eyes of the Trail Riders who pass their way this summer enroute to camp.

Trees by the Trailside

BY A strange twist, incredible as it may seem, the most perpendicular species of tree in Canada is known to botanists and foresters as pinus contortus — the contorted pine.

This tall slim tree which grows in countless millions in the Rockies of Alberta and British Columbia was first discovered on the Pacific coast by the Scots botanist David Douglas about one hundred and twenty years ago. He found it growing in swampy soil near tidewater where, exposed to high winds from the ocean, it was scrubby and stunted in form. Thereupon the learned men of science at Kew Gardens in England, to whom specimens were forwarded, bestowed upon it the aforesaid gnarly name.

This upright and slender forest tree is now best known as the "lodgepole pine" and is closely related to the Jack pine. There is little need to describe the tree in detail as readers of this bulletin are familiar with its general appearance. To native red men and to all Trail Riders and Sky Line Hikers it is invaluable in providing superfine ribs for tepees. Most farmers resident in southern Saskatchewan and enjoying a holiday under canvas at Banff or Lake Louise see in the lodgepole pine a prime source of material for fence posts rails and firewood.

At present the wood from this tree is chiefly used for railway ties and for pit props in coal mining operations. It makes excellent fuel and an ever increasing quantity is annually sawn to provide lumber for the manufacture of light weight boxes used by fruit growers in British Columbia. Faced with a rapidly dwindling supply of standing spruce the pulp and paper interests are of necessity turning to lodgepole pine for raw material. Already in central Alberta many thousands of acres of these trees are marked as food for the printing presses.

It is, however, as an evergreen garment clothing the mountain slopes that the lodgepole forest is most valuable. It holds the winter snowfall in bond and checks rapid run-off of water in spring. During summer it is, in measure, a creator of clouds which, sailing eastward, carry welcome moisture to thirsty farm lands. In fact this type of tree is vitally important to the entire rural and urban population of southern Alberta.

For example, should fire or insect pest destroy the pine woods bordering on Elbow River the city of Calgary would soon be deprived of domestic water supply. Rapid and continued melting of the glaciers in the Rockies are gradually reducing rivers to creeks and creeks to rivulets, a situation causing concern to irrigation and electrical engineers to whom water means crops and power.

Fortunately this danger has been recognized and the creation of a great new evergreen forest belt along the eastern base of the Rockies is already under way. Thus the lodgepole in vastly increased acreage will render timely first aid to ailing streams and largely offset loss of water from the dwindling glaciers. Even today, without the existing pine forest it is obvious that the huge irrigation dams at Bassano and on Milk river and the electrical power stations on the Bow, the Spray and the Kananaskis rivers would be comparatively useless.

During the past two or three years an apparently insignificant species of moth has been playing havoc with the lodgepole trees over a large area of Banff National Park. This insect deposits her eggs inside needles of the tree where, later, the larvae obtain suitable board and lodging at considerable cost to their unwilling host. The lodgepole leaf miner, as this pest is named, is a newcomer to Canada, this being the first invasion noted by forestry officials in

Dan McCowan

● Trail Riders make a big fuss over alpine blooms. But how many look twice at a homely lodgepole pine? It has many uses—from making paper to propping up tepees. In this article Naturalist Dan McCowan gives the tree its due.

the Dominion. The infested trees are not actually killed outright but loss of foliage is severe and vitality is so lowered that attack by other winged pests is likely to follow. During the summer of 1948 the pine woods in the neighborhood of Lake Louise were sadly browned off. Chemical spraying from aeroplanes is apparently of little avail as the grubs ensconced within the leaf are comparatively safe. However, by means of an active parasitic type of tapeworm it is hoped that before long life for the troublesome leaf miner may be made intolerable.

That should prove welcome news to the pine squirrel and the pine grosbeak. It may render the porcupine less fretful, calm fears in the breast of the excitable pine marten and result in return of good health to the lodgepole pines who stand proudly erect on sunny hillsides and are as harp strings to the wind.

● The '51 ride is interesting from a historic standpoint. It was at the head of Wolverine Pass that our 14 original Trail Rider founders were marooned by bad weather in 1923 and decided then and there to perpetuate the Order. We hope, however, the historic interest can be enjoyed without the same bad weather.

EXCHANGES

Trail Riders of the Wilderness — This well illustrated and informative journal is a real eyeopener. With a king size format (11½" x 8½") its cover portrays a group of riders very much like ourselves and against much the same type of mountainous background.

No fewer than 12 10-day expeditions, held under the direction of the American Forestry Association, are scheduled for this summer, between June 1 and September 10. Their routes range from the Minnesota and Canadian border to faraway New Mexico.

Their aims are much the same as our own. "We need the tonic of the Wilderness," they emphasize in quoting Thoreau. This to Trail Riders, the Bulletin reads, means:

"Trails that begin where the roads end . . . Nature unmarred by man . . . Virgin forests untrod save by wild things that haunt them . . . Unnamed lakes . . . Mountains that seem to touch the stars . . . Solitudes where Creation still holds its masterpieces.

"Days in the saddle . . . Evenings around dreamy campfires . . . Nights in restful sleep beneath the stars . . . Exploring intriguing corners of the wilderness . . . Fishing in swift water where few have fished before . . . Stalking wildlife in its native haunts.

"Fellowship—the fellowship of the wilderness trail."

Four-Day Pow-Wow Planned by Stoney

FOR trail riders July this year means "happy riding"—For our friends the Stoney Indians, it means "happy gathering"—and what a gathering!

On July 19—one day before the start of the second trail ride—some 800 Stoney, accompanied by small bands of other tribes—will descend on Banff for their 62nd annual Indian Days celebrations.

For four glorious days—July 19-22—the Indian will once more emerge as the country's No. 1 citizen, while feathers and beadwork will be tops on the Banff fashion parade. It will be the occasion for unrivalled pageantry and a field day for the cameraman.

Claude Brewster
In Indian Garb.

Indian sports, bronc riding, races, bow and arrow contests, democrat races, and other thrilling feats of horsemanship will fill in the well planned program. Each day the Indians bedecked in all their finery, will emerge from their nearby encampment to parade through Banff's thoroughfares.

Assembled in the courtyard of Banff Springs Hotel, proud chieftains and their squaws, some toting a wide-eyed papoose, will each day receive prizes from their white brethren for most colorful costumes, most elaborate beadwork, etc. A prize also goes to the oldest member of the tribe.

Claude Brewster, outfitter to the Trail Riders, succeeded veteran Norman Luxton as president of the Indian Days association last year and is in charge of this year's preparations.

All trail riders are invited to attend what the organizers feel will be a bigger and better show than ever. Some members of the first ride which ends July 17, plan to stay over till the celebrations commence two days later. Members of the second contingent who arrive in Banff a day or two beforehand will have a golden opportunity of seeing the redman on parade.

It's a show with few if any parallels this side of the Old West and the legendary Buffalo Bill.

*Now is the time for all
Good members to make up
Their minds to capture
That Townsend Trophy!*

If you can take a picture—any kind of a picture—you're eligible to compete for the Townsend Trophy, a handsome silver cup awarded each year to the trail rider, who in the judges' opinion, has snapped the best ride photo of the year.

You don't need to be an expert to win the big silver cup, now on display at Banff Springs Hotel. Nor do you need high-priced equipment. Your old beat-up box camera may do the trick!

And here's what you get (1) Your name engraved on the big trophy itself (2) a small engraved replica of the big trophy for your own mantelpiece. (3) a matte-finished mounted enlargement, made from your negative (4) a page-wide reproduction in a subsequent issue of this magazine.

There are just a few rules to remember, Photos should be printed in glossy finish, black and white, not larger than 8" x 10".

Photographer's name must be contained in a sealed envelope on the outside of which appears a nom-de-plume, the same nom-de-plume to be printed plainly on the reverse of each entry submitted.

Send your entries to the Secretary-Treasurer. They are subsequently turned over to a panel of three judges, none of whom is a trail rider. The winner is announced shortly afterward.

Time to relax—Anne Crump surveys the landscape while cayuse munches contentedly nearby.

We Present the Winner

Carol Zellmer's Winning Entry

● "This is it!" the judges agreed after long and studious appraisal of the entries spread out before them. And at that moment Carol Zellmer of Milwaukee, Wis., became winner of the coveted Townsend Trophy, awarded each year for what is adjudged the best photo taken during either of the five-day rides.

Selecting the winner was no easy task for the judges, none of whom is a trail rider. Several entries, like the runner-up on page 7 by Helen Ramsay, twice winner of the trophy, were strong contenders for first place. We might add that the selection received this year was greater than ever before, and this despite a lion's share of cloudy weather experienced during last year's ride.

As the winner, Miss Zellmer will receive a mantel-sized miniature of the big silver trophy, now on display at Banff Springs Hotel. Her name will also be added to the column of winners already inscribed on the cup's gleaming surface. Miss Zellmer will receive too a mounted enlargement of the winning photo, an added attraction just introduced.

Vets and Tyros to Share the Fun

As we go to press applications for the '51 rides have started rolling in inearnest. We are pleased to see too that a number of last year's members have decided on a comeback. And we are just as happy to see new names appearing on the passenger list.

Heading the list of our veteran riders is Dr. John Murray Gibbon, who has missed only two rides since helping to found the organization in 1923. Dr. Gibbon, whose new book is reviewed elsewhere in this issue, has signed up for the second five-day ride.

Another of our members, who just can't seem to get enough trail riding, is our genial comrade Marshall Diverty of Woodbury, N.J. Marshall, who is this month's "cover boy", has been attending the rides as far back as we can remember. Marsh also is booked for the second ride.

It makes us happy too to learn that Miss Lib Smith is planning her third consecutive season with the Trail Riders, complete with her teen-age troupe from the Eastern States. When Lib and her girls are on hand, there is no shortage of talent at our campfire singsongs. We also commend the group for the breezy bulletin they issued following their trail riding holiday which commenced at Kananaskis Ranch. We'll be seeing them this year, we expect, on Ride No. 1.

Among other last year's members on the "definite" list this year will be Mrs. H. W. Hayward and Miss Anne Crump, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Douglas, Calgary; Harold Calhoun, Tappen, B.C. and Mrs. L. C. Wolfenden, Toronto; we also have newcomers from as far away as Cuba, Mr. and Mrs. Nestor Carrillo (Trail Hike 1949) and Tucson, Arizona.

The Cochrane Trail

*I was ridin' in to Cochrane;
Twas many years ago,
When I meets a lonely cowhand,
One that I used to know;
And as we stopped a-talkin'
This feller says to me
Let's ride into Cochrane
And get on a jamboree.*

*A gal lived on the sand flats
Where the Hoss Crick flows
He'd built a little cabin
Where the jack pine grows;
But a feller from the Dog Pound
Came a ridin' in one day
With a license and a halter,
He led that girl away.*

*A ridin' into Cochrane
Twas rattlin' time we made,
Left our ponies to the mercy
Of a stable chamber maid;
Must have had a time that night,
Though some hazy to me
How a gal upon the sand flats
Could start a jamboree.*

● Now it's plastic tableware!

This year marks another forward step in our goodhousekeeping department. Gone forever are the days of enamel tableware, so long a part of the "Come and get it" scene.

In its place will be a colorful assortment of plastic plates, bowls and cups that would grace the table of a big-town restaurant, let alone a camper's fare.

Our outfitter also plans to introduce stainless steel cutlery to the mess-tent scene come trail ride time, as well as improvements in the pots-and-pans category.

Only thing unchanged will be those trail ride appetites.

● IF YOU GET HOMESICK for camp life after the ride you can enjoy five more days of it with the Skyline Trail Hikers—and not far from the campsite you're so homesick for.

This year the hikers will hold their five-day hike camp from July 28th to August 1st.

For further details, please write the Secretary-Treasurer.

Ex-President Ralph J. Mather of St. Paul, Minn., right, chats with Dr. and Mrs. H. J. Vanek, both trail riders, during a visit to the latter's home in Menomonie, Wis. John, Steve and Tim, all ardent horsemen are lined up in front. Dr Vanek is a vice-president of the Trail Riders.

Mrs. Vanek was the very active president of the Bit and Spur Club of Eau Claire, Wis. The whole party was about to leave for a group ride when photo was taken.

What! No Buttons?

● If there's a vacant spot on your lapel it's high time you plugged it with a handsome trail ride button! You will not only be improving your appearance but helping the Trail Riders as well.

If you've ridden a minimum of 50 miles on Rocky Mountain trails you are entitled to wear the bronze button which still sells for the pre-inflation price of $2.50.

The buttons, which never fail to attract interest among non-members, are equipped with screw caps for men's lapels and brooch clasps for the ladies. They can be worn to good advantage on the trail in your hat or jacket.

A fresh supply has just been ordered from the jeweler and these and can be obtained by writing the secretary-treasurer. To refresh your memory, they come in the following styles and at following unchanged rates:

Bronze.....	50 miles.....	$2.50
Silver.....	100 ".....	3.50
Silver & Enamel.....	250 ".....	4.00
Gold.....	500 ".....	5.00
Gold & Enamel.....	1,000 ".....	6.00
All Enamel.....	2,500 ".....	6.00

Grand People, Those Trail Riders!

by ISABELLA M. KAYS

"HI, PARTNER!"

That's the friendly greeting I received from my fellow dudes at the outset of my first skyline ride with the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies. And it typified the spirit of friendliness and "camaraderie" I was to experience during those five subsequent days in the saddle and in our camp at the headwaters of the Spray.

It was a scene few could forget—that day we were saddling up at the Spray Lakes corral. Here were riders, colorfully garbed in cowboy attire, some veterans and others like myself ready for their first outing with the Trail Riders. And the horses—not 10, not 50, but more than 100 spread right there before your eyes!

And now a word or two about the trail riders. First of all, they represent a non-profit organization. They have their own club rules and elect their own officers, an American and Canadian serving alternately as president each year.

Trail Riders welcome all those who love the outdoors and their annual rides afford the best possible way of seeing and enjoying the Canadian Rockies.

Organizations like this, however, just don't happen. It takes courage, a love of outdoor life, an understanding of human nature, and expert handling and management. In this connection we may doff our Stetsons to Fern Brewster, our president; Claude Brewster, Tillie Knight, Jean Stewart, and other members of the executive and council who helped organize the annual camp.

But perhaps you're already planning your first trip with the organization. If so, these reminiscences of one who has been may give you an idea of what you can expect from the time you arrive in Banff to the time you bid your colleagues a fond farewell.

You arrive in Banff the night before registration day. Main street resembles 42nd and Broadway. It swarms with cars and people. You hurry to your designated hotel. Next day there is more excitement. You enter the registration office and receive a warm western welcome. You are handed your card and tickets.

And next morning bright, happy, hopeful faces watch the big buses roll up to transport them to the corral. You have never seen such a variety of costumes—never! The buses take you 16 miles to Canmore, then turn on the fire trail road. But when they continue along a temporary, narrow road constructed by the contractors for use while building a dam at Spray Lakes, you don't have time to worry about your horses!

● A Californian whose hobby is horses—ranging from her own collection of miniatures to the slightly larger mountain cayuse—finds that liquid sunshine (Rocky Mountain variety) dampens everything but trail ride spirits. "And between drenchings you really see some pretty country."

You were only a dude when you started—Remember? Now you appreciate more than ever the spectacular scenery, the trusty horse you prodded and petted, the helpful guides and your fellow comrades.

Lunch over, you are assigned a horse and guide. Your horse is small with short legs. You ask the guide if "that" will cross the river. But why worry about rivers? No sooner do we get started than a wind-driven rain storm starts too. Between drenchings you really see some pretty country.

You follow the Spray River, cross and recross it. Did you ever feel like "cruising down the river?" Just ride a horse across and you'll experience something new in this department. You ride through the open Spray valley and suddenly see tepees ahead. Yes, that is your camp.

Line up for sleeping bags, locate the colorful tepee that will be your home for the next five days, find your duffle and drag it in. But you must learn how to lay cut pine boughs on your grass tepee floor as a base for your ground sheet. You must also learn how to make a little fire in the centre of your tepee.

"Come and get it" rings out, and everybody does. In cafeteria style you munch a hearty dinner. Next you attend campfire singsong in a big donut-like canvass enclosure colorfully named the Longhorn Bar. After campfire, bed. Just how cold can it get? Never mind—Just dig a little deeper in your sleeping bag!

Next morning, to the tune of a dishpan, you hear "First call for breakfast!" and you're ready for another day on the trails. At 9.00 a.m. you are off on new territory. Through an open meadow, you ride, across a few creeks mainly on the jump (which the horses seem to prefer) then some wider creeks they have to walk through, and then a wide open space surrounded by beautiful mountains. The riders filter out in all directions and dismount for a rest and smoke. Now the sun is really shining.

Then up again for a steep climb over Palliser Pass. A few more yards downward and there it is—a beautiful small lake that reflects royalty—Mounts King Albert, Queen Elizabeth and Queen Mary. They are all there. This is Belgium Lake, head of the Spray River.

There is an abundance of snow around and battles commence among the younger group. The rest prefer to sit and converse watching the equally lazy horses, now tied to the trees, there being no eating grass available.

Soon we receive an order of "liquid sunshine"—in lumps—with our lunch. Hail stones, of course, always do help a hot cup of coffee or tea. The hail stops falling but the liquid sunshine changes only in form. In a steady rainfall we march down and through the valley to our camp without a stop—a distance of seven miles in one hour and 20 minutes. And they call that a slow ride!

One more river to cross—and this is how the trail riders go about it. (F. W. E. Round)

(F. W. E. Round)

Claude and Ruth Brewster lend a hand at a well-known chore. This summer the dishes will be plastic—and in color.

The third day's ride—destination White-man Pass—is quieter as the trail winds for the most part among the tall trees—a big relief for some of us. The auspiciously bright sunshine that introduced the day soon dims to a grey, but Trails Riders have long ago learned how to laugh at rain. In fact they have been laughing for three years and still come back for more!

Ascending the pass is a somewhat difficult task but very interesting from a historical standpoint, both the Father Desmel and the Palliser Expedition having used the pass as a route to the Pacific Ocean. After lunch Jupe Pluvius catches up with the group and again there is a wild ride back to camp.

Campfire, already mentioned, is really a morale builder. We could not have had a finer leader and mistress of ceremonies than Jean Stewart. She gets everyone together and keeps the program going merrily along.

Wet start on '50 ride was photographed to good advantage by Miss Kays.

Between songs we hear a few words from our gracious President Fern Brewster, a short resume of our future rides by Claude Brewster, three cowboy songs beautifully sung by our guitarist Harvey Bath, and a couple of renditions from Miss Lib Smith's girls.

Highlights of the second night include a recital on "piano legs" which are really flutes, but called recorders, by Pat Rieper and Alice Dawson, and a saw and base fiddle exhibition by "Jasper Jack" Brewster.

The third night produces still more talent, commencing with clever cowboy verses by Ray Bagley, followed by renditions by Jean Stewart who, with her lovely voice can really put the songs across, and then a talk by Isabella Kays on her 200-piece miniature horse collection which is still growing.

Stunt Nite comes as the grand climax on the fourth and last night. Enough said. No one could accurately describe the variety and fun of this impromptu event. But every tepee stages a terrific act!

And now back to the fourth day's ride. There is sunshine—real sunshine all day. What a difference! Our tepee village begins to dry out and the "piney" aroma pervades the camp. Riders are happy as they trace back along four miles of yesterday's trail, then turn off to Lemna Lake, probably the prettiest of all. The riders think so anyway as they look down upon the small glacier and islands. Some of the group go fishing and one girl even ventures for a swim.

Going on this year's ride? Now is the time to sign up

But all good things must come to an end. The fifth day features the packing of duffle, sleepings bags and blankets in the early morning cold. Our good cooks, Alvin and Eva Guinn, are busy packing food and dishes. Packers and pack horses are on the job early. Work progresses quickly and quietly.

One ambitious group takes off early for a 20-mile ride to Marvel Lake and a distant view of the back of Mount Assiniboine—Yes there are some horses who work that day! The riders? Well, the day is sunshiny. Isn't it emphasized many times? The balance of the group winds out of camp for a leisurely ride of eight miles to the corral.

You were only a dude when you started—Remember? Now you appreciate the scenery more than ever, the trusty horse you prodded and petted, the helpful guides, and most of all that healthy, happy and ambitious young organization—the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies.

Off the Beaten Track

From a scenic vantage point, high on a grassy knoll, fellow trail riders take time out for a bit of trailtime palaver, a cigarette and, of course, a respite from the saddle.

President Fern Brewster (second from right) looks on while Mrs. D. S. Bell emphasizes a point to Madeleine Cantelon. All participated in the first five-day ride last summer at Spray River camp.

Romance of the Foothills

by NINA LeBOUTILLIER

WHY did I choose a vacation on a western cattle ranch?" has continually been asked. Well, with a fondness for horses and animals, and with a wealth of happy memories of three trail rides in the Canadian Rockies, my new urge was to learn a little about the excitement and romance that lurked among the foothills of sunny Alberta.

So it was off to the wide open spaces for a ranchman's holiday for me . . . and it truly proved to be one of many delightful surprises.

Long Hours in the Saddle

Distance knows no bounds on the range and in many cases western ranches are far apart . . . but there is never any feeling of loneliness. Journeying on horse-back across the grassy range-country and sage-brush is the order of the day, and I soon learned that the men spend about 10 hours out of 12, in the saddle . . . and they ride magnificently.

For instance, one day after they had started before daylight to round-up some cattle, they did not get back to the ranch, where we were waiting dinner for them, until three o'clock: thus they had been over 10 hours continually in the saddle, during which time they had been incessantly on the gallop.

Cowboy-Style Dinner

They unsaddled their horses, and settled down to dinner after a wash-up. They closed round the camp-fire, but not to sit like other folk, oh dear no! Each cowboy knelt on one knee while he sat on the heel of his other foot, and ate his dinner with his plate on the ground. It seemed to me a most uncomfortable posture, but apparently they found it restful.

I was given a comfortable place at this strange repast, on an upturned-keg as a seat, and a plank of wood supported by a couple of boxes served as an excellent table. I never enjoyed anything better in my life than that cowboy's dinner-party.

Everyone seemed to eat heartily, (life in the open is a healthy one) and in a half hour the meal was finished, and putting cigarettes in their lips, the cowboys were off to the corral to brand the horses.

Cattle Round-Up

Soon after my arrival, I was asked if I would care to go along and see a cattle round-up. So one fine morning with the first silvery streak of dawn, we mounted and galloped off behind a number of ranchmen to view my first cattle "round-up". What a novel experience for me to be able to see at close range, about 25 cowboys, all accustomed to this district, who knew from experience where to ride and find the herds of cattle.

It was a wonderful sight to see the dexterity of these riders, galloping round the herd and bringing in any stragglers. Sometimes they had to crack the whip, or if necessary, lasso one, or rope another, and after carefully surrounding them, get them to move steadily into the corral for branding.

The main corral appeared to have two or three large cattle pens, the palings of which were from seven to eight feet high.

But to go back a bit, I'll never forget the first glimpse of the herd as it first appeared on the horizon; so small it looked, indeed, that my untrained eye could see only a soft grey mist appearing to be rising up from the ground: but in a short while the picture changed, and I soon heard the sound of hundreds of galloping feet, like a cavalry charge, while the animals' heads gradually emerged from clouds of dust and sand. On jogged the herd—bulls, cows and calves, running at full speed.

(Nick Morant)

It was noticed that a cowboy rode in front to lead the herd, and two or three men were riding at intervals down each side of the group: others formed a line at the rear to drive the cattle on, so that they seemed to be literally surrounded. If one or two tried to escape, a great chase ensued, which personally, I found most thrilling. It's a great sight to see a couple of hundred cattle driven over the plains, and when one animal has the courage to break through the line, one instinctively hopes that he will get away.

Cowboys seem able to do most everything. The head man gives his orders, like a general, and his orders are carried out as he so ordains. I have never seen such horsemanship as these cowboys possessed; their power with the rope, and their quickness could only be acquired with years of experience.

Ready For Branding

The round-up was completed in the afternoon, which finished the work for that day. Early next morning, however, the men were up bright and alert to get the cattle ready for branding, a big feature in the proceedings of the round-up.

I noticed there was a gate that led from a large pen into a smaller one. This was opened and the cattle driven through. As the animals passed along a narrow walled lane built for the purpose of making them move slowly, a stock-keeping cowboy marked them down accordingly to their age and sex. A revolving gate was at the end of the lane and so cleverly was it worked that it directed the calves to go into one pen, and the remaining stock into another.

Plenty of Thrills

When all required were within the branding-pen, the excitement commenced. This demanded some real skill, for each calf had to be caught for branding. Some of the men were mounted, others on foot in the corral, and every man had his 10 yards of rope for lassoing. One of the cowboys then galloped over to a calf, threw his rope over the calf's head, and brought him to the spot where the branders were ready. Then another man with great dexterity roped his hind-legs and yet another tied up the front legs. The ropes seem to whistle in the air with this operation, and they rarely ever failed to trap their quarry.

Of course, some of the animals show amazing pluck, and will buck and caper in grand style. I was impressed with the roping . . . it was simply splendid to see the certainty with which it was done.

In a hole in the earth was a fire with hot irons, made in the shape of a long poker bearing the owners' initials or sign. Immediately the calf was in position, one of the branders applied the iron. Then when the branding ceremony was ended the calves were returned to their pen.

Soon all were let out to get food and water, and what a noise . . . what dust! Helter-skelter they rushed through the gates to their native ranges . . . to glorious freedom once again to roam the grassy ranges of the Alberta foothills.

Record System Streamlined

While the trails have been slumbering under the deep snows of the Rockies, there have been several new developments in the production department.

These include a reissue of the Trail Riders Constitution (yours for the asking) the new folder which was mailed to all members a short while ago, as well as several new forms which give our record system a shot in the arm.

At the risk of being called "form-happy" the secretary-treasurer points with pride to the new application form, outfitter form, mileage record, and membership form—all designed to fit in the special crested Trail Ride envelopes.

And, as the salesman says, they come in four different colors—lovely to look at as well as practical. They'll all be on display in the Trail Ride registration office when you come to call. We also expect to have a batch of Trail Ride map folders for distribution to our members.

A new card record system is being planned for the Fall, as well as a special card for Life Members. Our "due reminders" will appear in the same form with the possible addition of snapping teeth for delinquent members.

So, you see, we think of you often—and don't forget, we welcome your suggestions for improving the organization or streamlining its operations

DON'T FORGET!

All duffle must be deposited at the Mount Royal Hotel by 4.00 p.m. on the day before the commencement of each Trail Ride. This enables our outfitter to have the duffle transported to our central camp well in advance of our arrival.

Ray Bagley Grateful For Pals' Good Wishes

This space reserved for the indomitable Ray Bagley, Coleman, Alta., who early this year suffered a serious mishap resulting in, according to Ray's report, "a bruised shoulder, concussion and a broken neck." Though fed up with gazing at the ceiling Ray's long hours of confinement were brightened by a multitude of get-well wishes from fellow trail riders and other friends of the genial, humorous, stout-hearted trail riding poet.

Requested Ray: Would you permit me space in the Bulletin to thank the many friends for their kind words and good wishes . . . I would deem it a favor if those among you who have broken necks would tell me how long before I could reasonably expect to be up and ridin' again."

Ray is to be congratulated too on his splendid account of the 1950 trail ride, written in the form of a log, which he mailed in large quantities to former riders who were unable to attend last year's camp. A request to have the log published in a subsequent issue of "Trail Riders" has been granted by Ray, who at latest reports, is rapidly recovering from the effects of his mishap.

Stetsons off to Emcee Jeannie Stewart, reported doing a grand job with Canadian Government Travel Bureau way down in old N.Y. Still hoping Jeannie can get furlough to resume campfire duties on rides and hike. Wonder how Jeannie finds those Manhattan skyscrapers compare with the snow-capped Rocky Mountain variety.

Tillie Knight and Jean Stewart coax their tepee campfire with dubious results.

THE SQUAW MAN

She was only a squaw from the Lake Reserve,
Homely and round and fat,
But she packed the water and cut the wood
And she sure could skin a rat;
Her eyes were soft like a shaded pool
'Neath autumn's gold and brown,
Her hair was as black as the darkest night
Ere the rain came falling down.

Camped in April of '26-
On the banks of the Waskaseiu,
Snow was slow in going
But there was nothing we could do;
Just a sittin' markin' time
Waitin' for the thaw,
We was fairly comfortable
Me and my homely squaw

The springtime hit us all at once,
Water everywhere —
Buds a bustin' on the trees,
The crick was on the tear;
At nights it packed a scum of ice,

Rats was runnin' good,
That sqaw was really busy
Settin' traps and cuttin' wood.

I mind that frosty mornin'
As I crawled out of bed,
There was no breakfast waitin'
The campfire cold and dead;
Premonition told me
There must be something wrong,
I never got an answer
Though I hollered loud and long.

I found a big hole in the ice,
She must have busted through;
I packed my traps and shifted
Far from the Waskaseiu,
Still in my dreams I see her
Out there a cuttin' wood,
But I miss her most of all
When the rats is runnin' good.

Books by Prominent Trail Riders

*"The Romance of the Canadian Canoe" by Dr. J. M. Gibbon, and "Lords of the Lakes and Forests" by Lt. Col. P. A.
Moore Deal with Nation's Early Development.*

● The important role of the canoe in this nation's development has been colorfully portrayed in a new book by Dr. John Murray Gibbon, honorary president and former secretary-treasurer of the Trail Riders organization.

The latest in a long series of outstanding literary accomplishments by the well-known Canadian author and lyricist, the Romance of the Canadian Canoe unfolds the story of Canada from a new and fascinating point of view.

In his story, the author traces the story of discovery and exploration, of trade and commerce, war and peace, and shows how the canoe has followed the entire course in an almost spectacular way.

He quotes from letters and journals until the canoe at times seems to become a living partner in the venture of nation building. Archivists east and west have assisted the author in unearthing interesting data, both text and illustrations. The result is a very useful book and at the same time an exciting one. The illustrations alone are very valuable, and form a large and important part of the book.

● "I have not the slightest idea why I have undertaken the work of compiling this little book. Of course my friends persuaded me."

With these words, Lt.-Col. P. A. Moore of Banff, a past president of the Trail Riders, leads off his introduction to "The Lords of the Lakes and Forests," a vivid portrayal of the everyday life of an early fur trader (1760-1825) from the time of his enlistment in the trading company until his retirement.

After reading the book we are pleased that Col. Moore's friends used their persuasive powers. Dealing with a subject that has seldom if ever been treated in such concise form, the book brings to life a multitude of whimsical little incidents that made life interesting—and at times difficult—when the fur trade was in its glory.

Dedicated "To the brave hearts and buoyant spirits of the personnel of the Northwest Company whose names are but memories . . . if they are even remembered," the book, as the author emphasizes, is not for sale and only a limited number have been published.

Right off the Cob

"Little Algernon (to old lady who has just arrived and whom he has never seen before): So you're my grandmother, are you?"

Old Lady: Yes, on your father's side.

Algernon: Well, you're on the wrong side; I'll tell you that right now.

"Your honor," said a lawyer, "this man beat his wife over the head with an oak leaf."

"An oak leaf!" snorted the judge. "An oak leaf couldn't hurt anybody."

"Your honor," pursued the lawyer. "It was an oak leaf from the dining room table."

Judge: "Young lady, what gear were you in at the time of the auto accident?"

Girl: "Oh, I had on my new straw hat, my tan sandals and my organdy dress."

A Bostonian visited San Antonio and asked a native: "What is that old ruin over there?"

"That, suh, is the Alamo. In that building, suh, 136 immortal Texans held off an army of 15,000 of Santa Anna's regulars for four days."

"Um-m-m," mused the Bostonian, "and who was that man on horseback on that hill over there?"

"That, suh, is a statue of a Texas Ranger. He killed 46 Apaches in single-handed combat and broke up 27 riots in his lifetime."

"I'm from Boston. We have heroes there too. Paul Revere, for instance."

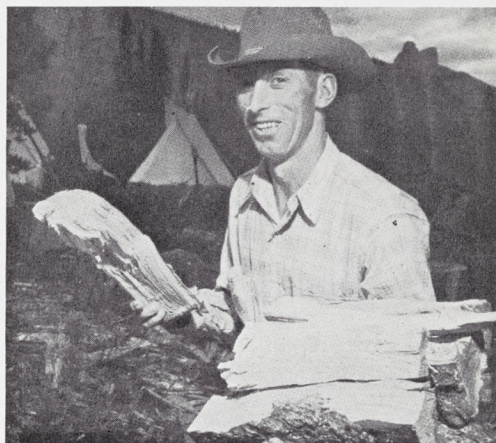

"Paul Revere!" snorted the Texan. "You mean that fellow who had to ride for help?"

Lots of Wild Life

Wild animal and bird life is abundant in Banff, Yoho and Kootenay National Parks. Among the species of big game found here are moose, elk, deer, Rocky Mountain sheep and goat, black, brown and grizzly bear, and numerous fur-bearing animals, including beaver, mink, lynx and fox. Bird life includes grouse, ptarmigan, and many bright-plumaged song birds.

The wooded areas of Kootenay and Yoho parks include such species as the lodgepole pine, or western jack pine, spruce, balsam, fir, poplar, cottonwood, mountain maple and larch.

That's for Us!

Super duper, you and me,
This year's trail ride? Certainly!
Claude's a-waiting, Buddy's there,
Saddled horses everywhere.

Snow-capped mountains, swaying pine,
Hoss impatient, take your time;
Up you go, now stirrup's right,
Slack your rein, we're ridin' light.

You may leave your cares behind,
New congenial friends you'll find—
Handsome girls and timid men,
Happy days are here again.

Why not be a Life Member?

Do you wear the gold button for 500 miles or a button of still higher denomination? If so, you are eligible for life membership in the Trail Riders!

Life membership entitles members to compound their paid and future dues by payment of $25.00 which absolves them from any further payment of annual dues.

A handsome certificate, surmounted by a trail ride etching, is presented the life member upon payment of one dollar extra.

Trail Riders are reminded that July 24th is the deadline for payment of their 1951 membership dues—the sum of $2.00.

We don't like to be too insistent, but business is business, and we must abide by our Constitution. And it reads (Article 6, section 4) in part:

"The annual general dues of the Order shall be $2.00 and shall be paid not later than the date of the annual camp of each year. Members who shall fail to make payment within thirty (30) days thereafter shall cease to be in good standing . . ."

Section 6: Any person elected to membership in the Order shall pay his dues within thirty (30) days thereafter, otherwise his election shall be void.
